RON'S REFLECTIONS

Yesterday afternoon, at the gentle invitation and persistence of my good friend Brian Johnson, I dug out my ole cross bow, a few arrows, my hunting knife, my hat, my hunting boots and then spent the next several hours sitting out in the forest near my home. Frankly, I had forgotten what a treat it is to step away and spend time in the woods during this time of year.

As I settled in, nestled between the branches of some deadfall, I soon became aware of the sounds of the forest. The almost constant patter of acorns falling all around me was something I'm not sure I've ever heard quite like I heard yesterday. There was also a bit of a breeze that was rustling the leaves and causing those ready for their final journey from limb to land to break free and gently fall.

The longer I sat the more I began to see the activity of the forest community. The calls and chirps of the many kinds of birds flitting and feeding in the branches and rustling among the multi-colored leaves. Then there were the squirrels both grey and black with their fluffy tails bouncing out the back as they scampered up and down the trees and across the branches in search of whatever squirrels look for and carry back to their secret hiding places. They were certainly entertaining!

Of course, I was there in hope of seeing a nice buck or big doe come walking through the woods on the way to or from the water or nosing around the forest floor in search of a good meal of fresh acorns. It is the beginning of the rutting season and so I was also hoping a big buck might be not quite as cautious and also a bit distracted on his way past my hiding place.

Now, I have not hunted for more years than I care to admit, so it was good to be back among the trees, sort of like coming home to a once familiar environment. But what really felt good was to have that chance to take an interactive view of the "living handiwork" of my heavenly Father's creation! Fall is such a beautiful time of year, yet it is unique in the sense that I get the distinct feeling that an era or season is ending and yielding to another season just as dynamic, and it is happening before right in front of not just my eyes but all my five senses. To hear, to smell, to see and to touch the beauty God has made is awesome! Fall is the season where seeds/acorns fall and are buried, and new life will begin again!

Last Sunday, the text for the sermon was Ephesians 3:14-21. I titled the sermon "Rooted, Grounded and Flourishing." Paul, through prayer, was praising God and interceding for ALL those who had been made alive through the acceptance of The Good News of the Gospel of Christ Jesus. Paul prayed that the believer would know the width, the length, the height and depth of the love of Christ.

To grasp a better understanding for me or for the believer, the analogy of spending time in the forest can be explored and applied. For me to know, experience and appreciate the forest, I first need to respond to the invitation. Then I must stop what I am doing, I must go there, I must get quiet, I must sit still and watch, I must listen and learn. Then and only then can I really begin to see, benefit from and enjoy the dynamic life cycle and culture of the forest all around me.

For me to know, experience and appreciate the width, the length, the height and the depth of God's love requires the same. I must decide to stop what I am normally doing; I must come into his presence and his word. And as I read, I must get quiet, I must watch, I must listen and learn in every season of life to truly experience God's dynamic power that touches every aspect. Finally, I must open my eyes to behold the beauty of his handiwork and be amazed that I am able to flourish on this journey to which he has called me because of the magnitude of HIS love for me and for all of us. Happy Hunting! Love ya!

PARABLES OF JESUS

LAST WEDNESDAY OF EVERY MONTH

adult & youth study

At Cornerstone, we are dedicated to fostering the growth of discipleship. A significant model we reference from Scripture is found in Titus chapter 2, where older men mentor younger men, and older women guide younger women. On the last Wednesday of each month, our youth – both young men and women – will join our adult Bible studies. During these sessions, we will delve into a parable taught by Jesus, engaging in collaborative learning and discussion. A guide will be provided to help us gain Biblical insights as we reflect on and apply the lessons to our lives. Our inaugural session will begin on October 30 at 7 PM. We look forward to seeing you there!

DISCIPLESHIP focused.

COMING SOON

Dear Church Family,

The Elders are delighted to announce several initiatives aimed at enhancing awareness of our discipleship ministry. Our first step is to create greater visibility for this vital aspect of our church life. We are excited to introduce the Discipleship Center, which will be strategically located within the church, similar to our Welcome Center. This center will serve as a hub for resources designed to foster discipleship and support our community.

To the right of this page, you will find an  example of the resources soon to launch that can serve as valuable discipleship tools for assisting fellow members facing challenges. These materials are Christ-centered and rooted in Biblical principles, providing guidance and encouragement for those you are mentoring to remain faithful to Jesus.

You will notice that these resources are specifically branded for Cornerstone and include a QR code that directs individuals to our church website for further information. More resources will be introduced in the future. We ask that you keep this ministry initiative in your prayers. If you are interested in participating in any capacity, please do not hesitate to reach out to Jason Breda.

How to handle

Anxiety & Worry

You do not struggle with this alone, even some of the most well known people in the Bible struggled with worry or anxiety. David (Psalm 56), Martha (Luke 10:38-42), Gideon (Judges 6:11-17), The Disciples (Matthew 8:23-27), and Paul (2 Corinthians 11:28)

there is hope!

how to find your way out of anxiety & worry

1

You must know God personally. If you don't, seek a Christian friend, family, or pastor that can help you know salvation in Jesus

2

Your primary focus should not be alleviating anxiety/worry, but rather on the intention to please God by following His guidance.

3

Your commitment to Him and adherence to His Word, precisely as it has been provided to us, should be followed, regardless of your feelings.
